INDUSTRIAL COURT FACES OPPOSITION FROM EMPLOYERS

BOTH SIDES CRY OUT AGAINST STATE RESTRICTION.

FEAR FOR PROFITS

Kansas Seeks to Shield Public, Balking Abuses by Labor or Capital.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

(This is the third of a series of three dispatches on the operations of the Kansas court of industrial relations summing up the viewpoint of employers.)

Topelka, Kans.—Employers have had about as much to say in criticism of the Kansas industrial court law as labor leaders. Each cries out against restriction. The labor leader says the right to strike is impaired, and the employers say that this is true only in industries essential to the public welfare and that any individual is free to quit work but must not conspire with others to do the same.

Taking away certain privileges from labor is a matter of depriving capital of certain rights too.

Any firm or corporation or business, which limits or suspends or delays or restricts or interferes with the "efficient operation" for the purpose of evading the purpose of the Kansas industrial law is subject to severe punishment.

One section of the law reads that "it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation engaged in the operation of any such industry (essential industries being listed) to willfully limit or restrict or interfere with the purpose of limiting production or transportation or to affect prices for the purpose of avoiding any of the provisions of this act but any person, firm or corporation who is engaged may apply to said court of industrial relations for authority to limit or restrict or interfere with the reasons therefor and said court of industrial relations shall hear said application promptly and shall grant or deny the same."

The foregoing gives the state sweeping powers over essential industries. The theory back of the law is continued on page 3.

Egg Speculators Face Heavy Loss As Hens Get Busy

By Associated Press.

Chicago.—Egg speculators in Chicago and other produce centers are being caught, there being surplus supplies of millions of dozens of eggs and lower prices, largely due, egg men said, to the greatly increased activity of the hens. Speculators were said to have been holding eggs at a loss of 3 cents a dozen, with 10,000,000 dozen more eggs in storage than at this time last year.

The Cares of the Housewife

Oh, John! While cleaning the attic today, I found some beautiful old pieces of furniture, but I can find no suitable place for them since we had the house redecorated.

Says John: (the husband and a modern progressive business man) "Sell the furniture with a want ad in the Gazette."

"No worry, no trouble and sure results."

"But—remember this—it is poor economy to eliminate from your copy those things which are of most HUMAN INTEREST to the individual to whom you are dependent for results."

WIFE WANTS DIVORCE FROM HIGH OFFICIAL

Elmer Schlessinger.

Chicago.—The wife of Elmer Schlessinger, until very recently counsel for the shipping board at a salary of $25,000 a year, filed a suit for divorce against her husband. The divorce was granted by the court of industrial relations.

MALPRACTICE SUIT FOR $10,000 FILED

Husband and Wife Institute Separate Actions Against Beloit Doctors.

New application of laws relating to the husband-and-wife-suit to the $10,000 malpractice suit started Saturday in the Rock county circuit court by Frank Greenwood and his wife Ida Greenwood, 51 Lawrence avenue, Beloit, against Drs. Thomas P. Shimmick and William J. Allen, also of Beloit.

The suit is based on allegations that the two Beloit physicians were "unkindly" in their treatment of a broken wrist of Mrs. Greenwood, injured May 18, 1921. She slipped and broke her right forearm, dislocated bones of the wrist and hand. She later lost use of her arm, according to the complaint. Damages are being sought for alleged neglectful treatment, by both the wife and husband.

Grain Piles up at Erie Port as Eastern Railroads Fail to Handle Product

By Associated Press.

Superior.—Congestion of grain in the elevators at Buffalo, due to the inability of eastern railroads to transport it from that port to the Atlantic seaboard, has resulted in slowing up the grain movement from the western grain fields to Superior. At the Lake Erie ports, elevators are filled to capacity, 5,000,000 bushels of grain are riding in boats in the harbor and only 200 cars daily are moving out of the city instead of the 800 which should be moved to keep this channel open.

In Superior, there is a sort of backwater stagnation, instead of the normal current of transportation. In spite of large crops and great quantities of grain in need of transportation, the movement into this city has dropped within a few days from 500 cars of grain daily to 150 or less, according to H. A. Jureau, secretary of the Wisconsin grain commission, and the movement is smaller than in the worst slack seasons.

Boats which take grain from the twin ports to Buffalo must ride in harbor there indefinitely without unloading. Grain unloaded in Buffalo must wait indefinitely for cars or canal boats to take it further on its way. And the car shortage is so

HARMONY REIGNS AT MILK MEETING HELD IN ELKHORN

FARMERS EXPECT AND HEAR "CO-OP" ENDORSEMENT.

GLOVER ADVISES

Warns Dairymen Against Excessive Prices Through Dairy Pool.

After being bobbed around on a stormy sea for the last month, the milk can ship of the Chicago Milk Marketing company has been steered into calm waters and a pilot is being sought for reaching the producers' goal of at least a "50-50" split of the amount paid for milk by the consumer.

Three hundred and fifty farmers crowded into the court house in Elkhorn, Friday night, expecting to hear a raging dispute. Rather, they heard a general endorsement of co-operative marketing from Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets, and A. J. Glover, editor of Hoard's Dairyman.

Before the evening meeting, Commissioner Nordman met representatives of both sides. They discussed the situation and the state complaint, with resulting harmony.

It is likely the state department will not press its suit, and it is expected certain affairs of the marketing company will be reorganized to meet the legal requirements of Wisconsin cooperative laws. No one mentioned the "unfair service charge" in this connection, any indication of alleged coercion to force producers into the pool.

However, Editor A. J. Glover sounded a fair warning revealing the fallacies of the old pool in attempting to set excessive prices and (Continued on page 5.)

Posses Trail Bank Bandits

By Associated Press.

Green Bay.—Robbers entered the Onondaga state bank at Onondaga, 10 miles west of here, early Saturday, and carried off with them a cash on hand, according to a telephone message received here this morning. ## WIS. U. INDIANA

Camp Randall.—Before a crowd of 12,000, Wisconsin and Indiana clashed on the gridiron at Camp Randall today for the first time in 12 years. An ideal football day with a dry field and brisk weather made a good setting for the game.

First period—Wisconsin won the toss and chose to defend the south end of the field. Indiana kicked off to Williams, who returned to Wisconsin's 35 yard line. Williams and Gibson alternated through Indiana's right tackle for first down. Taft punted on the next play to Indiana's 20 yard line. After unsuccessful attempts at the Badger line, Haney punted out of bounds on Wisconsin's 43 yard line.

Williams went around right end for a 25 yard gain, but Gibson was thrown for a 4-yard loss. Barr passed 25 yards to Taft, who was downed on Indiana's 30-yard line. A pass, Barr to Tebell, was incomplete. Barr then tried to drop kick but it fell short and was recovered by Raymond for Indiana. Williams punted from behind goal line to Barr who returned to Hooser's 35-yard line. Williams went around right end for a 25-yard gain, but Gibson was thrown for a 4-yard loss. # POSSES HUNT TWO LIONS IN MICHIGAN DUNES, NEAR ST. JO

St. Joseph, Mich.—A lion hunt was on in Chikaming and New Buffalo townships Saturday, with Sheriff Belding personally in charge of a posse.

Four children were being kept at home and country schools closed Friday as the result of fright that had spread through the countryside because of the reported roarings of two lions of the jungle through the dunes and undergrowth skirting the Lake Michigan shore.

One woman, Mrs. Bruce Glessinger, Lakeview, apparently had been frightened by the beasts. She said she saw the lions Thursday. She heard a commotion in the pasture and saw two animals, tan in color and resembling lions. She turned and fled to the house.

The report spread that two lions had escaped from a circus.

Famous War Dog Is Dead in West

Los Angeles, Calif.—A famous war dog, although only a little less than a year old, died at the home of his mistress, Mrs. J. M. Peterson, Saturday.

Peter was credited with having raised a $9,000 war fund in Victoria, B. C., by begging for food on a table every day for three years and "speaking for contributions."

Peter was awarded a medal from the Canadian Field Forces Association in England, a life membership in the Canadian Field Forces Association and four other decorations, including one from the Yukon battalion.

Continue Probe of Farm Attack

Several investigations have been conducted by the sheriff's office during the last week in this strange case, said a report from Sheriff Peterson, who was beaten unconscious while asleep the night of Oct. 9.

No arrests have been made, reports District Attorney C. G. Peterson. "The present physical condition of Mr. Peterson does not warrant a detailed examination," reported the district attorney. The wounded man is reported slowly recovering from the effects of the clubbing.

Edgerton Rally Beats Stoughton

Edgerton—Scoring two touchdowns by steady football on Stoughton Friday afternoon, Edgerton high school won its fourth straight victory, 13 to 6. A big crowd of fans followed the team to Stoughton for the last time of the season, and the end of the first half, 6 to 0, having scored on a 90-yard end run. Edgerton started straight football tactics in the second half sending Guinness and Whitford over for touchdowns. Guinness adding another point by a drop kick after touchdown.

Larsen, left guard, was slightly injured.

LASKER DECLARES DRY SHIP RULING HITS U. S. MARINE

Chicago, Ill.—A banquet board, A. D. Lasker, chairman of the U. S. shipping board, held by the U. S. Attorney General Daugherty and the other bankers that the attorney general's recent ruling that all ships carrying American vessels must be "dry" was the greatest blow that could have happened to the American Merchant Marine.

"I can prove," said Mr. Lasker, who, with Mr. Daugherty, spoke before the Audit Bureau of Circulation and its guests, "that Mr. Daugherty is the greatest lawbreaker of all time. Moses only made the sea dry."

"We cannot compete," he said, "with foreign ships that can leave our shores dry and take on liquor at half-price."

Mr. Daugherty, in his address said: the law must be upheld against all groups and individuals.

C. C. BENNETT FORMER RESIDENT ELECTED TO IMPORTANT OFFICE

C. C. Bennett, formerly of Janesville, where he was in the retail shoe business, has been named a member of the Board of governors of the Farm Mortgage Bankers Association of America. Mr. Bennett is the president of the Western Securities Company of Denver. In an interview printed in the Rocky Mountain News he declared that interest was being paid more promptly and while the farmer was still confronting a number of serious problems there was money and lower rates of interest to help lighten the burden.

RELATIVES HAVEN'T LEGAL RIGHT TO OPEN ONE'S MAIL

Even close relatives may not open your mail, the U. S. Postoffice department rules, according to Fred J. Haskin, director of the Gazette Information Bureau at Washington, D. C. Whether or not it is unlawful to return another person's mail to the sender without the addressee's permission is another matter, which the postoffice department should act upon.

Answering queries is but one of the services performed by the Bureau. In addition, booklets on a great variety of subjects are sent out to those availing themselves of the coupons printed each day on the editorial page of the Gazette.

Last week, booklets on floors were most popular, three having been issued. There were two on child's luncheon, and one each on paint, health and rats. Eight miscellaneous booklets were given out.

MOTHER SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR THEFT

Detroit, Mich.—Mrs. Loretta Lee, 22, mother of a five-year-old boy, was today sentenced to from 8 to 20 years imprisonment following her conviction on a charge of complicity in a downtown jewelry store holdup.

RECTOR'S FAMILY CALLED FOR QUIZ

Relatives of Sain Pastor Summoned; Eyewitness of Murder found?

(By Associated Press.)

New Brunswick, N. J.—Working independently of all other investigation forces, Prosecutor Stricker of Middlesex county Saturday prepared to question at least five persons in an effort to obtain sufficient evidence to warrant an arrest in the Hall-Mills murder case. I. the meantime, Prosecutor Beckman of Sometime county, operating on a different track, was said to be preparing subpoenas for witnesses to appear before the Somerset grand jury at Somerville, Monday. Prosecutor Beckman believes he will be able to obtain information to bring an indictment.

Maid Is Questioned

Barbara Tough, a maid in the Hall home, was the first witness called by Prosecutor Stricker.

In calling members of the Hall household, Mr. Stricker intended, it was said, to get something of reported differences in the Stevens family when the Rev. Wm. Hall and Frances Stevens were married.

Interest has been excited by the semi-official announcement that the woman who lived in the possession of an affidavit by an eyewitness of the double murder, "a woman of standing in the community," which bluntly accuses a certain woman and her husband of the murder of the Rev. Wm. Hall and his choir leader.

This new witness, who has not heretofore figured publicly, is described as the only eyewitness of the murder. According to her affidavit, the Rev. Wm. Hall was shot while on the Phillips farm, where the bodies were found. The details of her affidavit, as well as her identity, are closely guarded secrets.

Jury Given Story?

It is believed, however, that the grand jury was given "her" story in affidavit form. It is not in person. In affidavit form, it is not in person. In affidavit form, it is not in person.

State Law Bars
Parking Cars on
Cement Highways

Warning to motorists against parking cars along cement highways is issued by Merton G. Miller, county highway patrolman, who calls attention to the provisions of subsection 57-1 of section 1636 of the state laws, making such an offense punishable by a fine of not to exceed $100.

The law says:
 "Except when making absolutely necessary repairs, no person shall park or leave any vehicle along, upon, or within the limits of any public highway in such manner as to interfere with the free passage of vehicles over and along such highway. In all cases there shall be left a free and usable passageway of at least 16 feet so that vehicles going in opposite directions may pass without interference from any standing vehicle."

Constable Miller calls attention to the fact that the concrete highways are only 18 feet wide, construing the section to mean that cars when parked must be entirely off the cement.

INDUSTRIAL COURT
FACES OPPOSITION
FROM EMPLOYERS

That it is necessary for the public welfare. The Supreme court of Kansas in a recent decision points out, however, that no firm is compelled to operate its plant at a loss, nor is it prohibited from changing its business, nor from quitting the business if it deems it to either of the things in good faith, not intending thereby to violate any provision of the act.

In other words, the employer has the right to quit work just as an employee has. But no employer can conspire with another to limit production nor can the plot alone to affect prices by shutting down his plant and limiting the supply of goods.

What Employers Fear.
 Many employers who are fighting the Kansas law fear this provision. They are afraid, as Governor Allen says, that such a law might limit their profits and thus offsetting by limitation or suspension of production will be punished. The state of Kansas is seeking to prevent the labor leaders from abusing the monopoly they have in the collection of contract, which they have enjoyed in bargaining for labor—both

when the public welfare is threatened.

Of far reaching importance too is the state's power to take over any essential industry and operate it. This for this has not been necessary except in coal mining. This year the state of Kansas by virtue of the power that it has over employers succeeded in getting from the coal operators the assurance that the price of coal would not be increased over the price in 1921.

The few cases that have been appealed by employers will furnish a test of the future of the law. The argument is to be made in the Supreme court of the United States, for example, that no state can force any concern to pay wages which it does not wish to pay. The contention is that this takes property from an individual without due process of the law and is contrary to the federal constitution.

Test in U. S. Court
 But the state of Kansas is preparing to fight the case and eminent counsel has been engaged. The decision of the state Supreme court upheld the validity of the industrial law of the state, that railroads have long been subject to regulation and forced to accept certain schedules of rates and recently the federal courts upheld the constitutionality of the transportation act which gave the United States labor the power to fix wages and working conditions.

Employers do not like the restrictive features of the Kansas law, but here again if the power is abused it will be revoked by the people just as would be the case if labor were injured by the rulings of a one-sided court.

The public as a whole for whom the law was put on the statute book regarded it as a step in the right direction. Whether it must be amended or the experimental development of the industrial power has been granted the state or too little, whether the personnel of the court can be maintained at a high standard—all this will depend upon the experience of the next few years. But broadly speaking the law is popular with the majority and the effect on other states has already been apparent.

Protection of the Public
 When monopolies became burdensome, the law of corporations and trusts came into being. When labor and capital began conspiring to affect prices and the supply of necessities, the state steps in and regulates. That's what Kansas has done and one of her sons, Representative Hoch, has introduced a bill providing for a federal court along the same lines. Various states are taking it up. But state protection of the public in labor controversies is a fact in Kansas and it is effective besides.

Friday and Saturday—"Proper O'Neil," Charles Jencks; and second part of "The Timber Queen," with Ruth Roland.

Moving picture attractions of the usual excellence are to be seen here during the coming week. After having two extraordinary stage attractions this past week—Sons and Daughters on Tuesday and "Robin Hood" on Thursday—the public is ready for a few more movies until the next stars will be seen, as given in the schedule printed above. A more detailed comment on each picture follows:

AT THE APOLLO.
Jackie Coogan's fame is perhaps greater than any other movie actor, considering the number of pictures in which he has appeared. This is due to the immense hit he made in his first picture, "The Kid." Charlie Chaplin starred in the picture, but before he had gotten fairly started Jackie Coogan playing the part that named the picture, was as big an attraction as Charlie himself. It was Charlie who depicted the outfit that has now become so connected with Coogan's name, and he who gave Jackie his star. Since "The Kid," Jackie has proved to be the most popular child actor on the screen, and his eye for eye, "My Boy" has been a success. He has also produced "Double" and is at work on still another.

"My Boy" was written especially for Jackie and contains a story which is eminently fitted to his talents. Combining humor and pathos, it is a tale which is particularly gripping and effective. It was produced by Sol Lesser, and the sterling cast includes Claude Dillingwater and Martha Brandon.
The story is that of little Jackie Blair, who lands in New York City, and attaches himself to a surly sea captain, who is an enemy of children in general. He so ingratiates himself into the good graces of the sea dog that he is allowed to share the latter's home. He had been saved from deportation through good fortune, but the immigration inspectors are on his trail. The captain had intended at road western or northern picture. This type has remained popular since movies were first made. Many other types have come, but have gone again while crowds still flock to see a picture full of riding, fighting and love. "Trooper O'Neil" is a story of the mounted police, and has an interesting story. "The Timber Queen," a Ruth Roland serial, now running at the Bowers on week-ends, is of the same nature. The first number, seen Friday, was well received.

title role in "Nice People" famous. It is now up to Bebe Daniels, who plays the same part in the movie, to live up to that reputation. Miss Daniels does not carry all the load in the picture, though, as she is co-starred with Wallace Reid and Conrad Nagel, one of the newer favorites.
Young and old will both like "Nice People." The young will like it, for it is about themselves. They will want to see it to determine if it tells the truth about the "trouble young people" of today. The old will want to see it for what is said to be a true picture of the ideas and actions of these young people. It is an expose of the life of modern youth, and whether it is overdone, or whether it presents the truth will remain to be seen. It can be said, though, that the play "Nice People" had a long run on the stage and was one of last season's greatest successes. This was partially due, no doubt, to Miss Lawrence.
The picture needs to be taken as a problem play, unless one has determined to reform everything young. It will be an interesting and amusing story of life of today.
Bebe Daniels, not long ago a player in slapstick comedy, when she has played acting ability chiefly by her part and by running around in a full-fronted corset and has the honor and publicity attending co-starring with Wallace Reid, who before the advent of "The Ides of March" and "The Sign of the Cross" was the most popular actor in "Nice People" she displays ability in the part of the "nice people" who could do things common people could not think of.

events makes all clear, to her, and with the death of her husband, she and the prospector, played by David Powell, are united.
An exciting scene in which the girl and the prospector go over the falls, and the prospector goes over the falls, comes at the climax of the picture and is shown in a most realistic manner.
Due to its interest in leaving Chicago, "The Circle" will not play here until December. Manager Charles Boutin announces. This play, being well received now in Chicago, was to play here Nov. 13, but it started in Chicago late, as the new theater at which it opened was not ready until a month after the date set. For that reason, and the fact that it has opened an engagement for Detroit directly after the Chicago run, it will play here in December. Another movie will not harm the production, though, and as long as Janesville is so fortunate as to see two such famous players as John Drew and Mrs. Leslie Carter, a wait will only make the visit the more appreciated.
"The Nightcap," a mystery play on the order of "The Bat," will play at the Myers, Nov. 9.

Read every energy to finish the high school building so it may be used before the end of 1922. With the completion, the problem of a community center will be solved.
Janesville and the surrounding hotel facilities to care for the public. That will be especially true when the high school is completed and the necessary structure is available
for the largest conventions.
Finish the paving of Janesville streets as soon as the necessary funds are available.
Adjustments in taxation so as not to place a state building for World War soldiers,

the living and the dead—to be also an historical building.

COAL AND THE RAILROADS

Instead of making it harder for the retailer
to do business and surrounding him with red tape
and orders, it would seem that the most important thing for the Federal and state coal administration to accomplish is to hasten shipments over the railroads to the points of distribution. Reports show a car shortage but a large part of this is due, according to the dealers in coal, to the failure of the roads to deliver cars to the mines and to get them unloaded in the terminal yards.

Railroads are apparently unable to move the cars since the congestion at transfer points is reported to be worse than usual. There is plenty of coal if it can be moved. The mines are able to produce more coal than they are loading because they have insufficient cars. It may be necessary to issue additional priority orders so that while we still have good weather an advance
supply of coal can be brought north and west.

Except for here and there an instance, coal profiteering does not seem to be at all general and few cases have been reported. The state is issuing regulatory requests for retail handling of coal and as to shipments mostly by lake, but the real necessity seems to be to speed up the transportation from the mines to the consumer.

Even with its record for death and disaster the auto is safer than the blimp.

MR. HOOVER STRIKES FIRE

In his Toledo speech Herbert Hoover said Europe should pay its debts and stop its wasting overinconsequential, stuck to production and make enough to restore its financial equilibrium. He has stirred up the Anglophobians and all those who feel that America is of no consequence but Europe is everything. The League of Nations supporters, the cancellation advocates, the dealers in foreign bonds and other securities and the few who think that once America takes part in the European mess we shall inspire peace for all time,
are bitterly disappointed in Hoover. They say so right out in meeting. We have some pupil censors who will never forgive the United States and will continue to apologize for being American citizens as long as they live because we did not send the remnants of the army and our navy
over to do battle to Kemal Pasha after the Smyrna horror. The Good Bishop Cannon is still tolling us so, Christianity with him and others
agreeable with him is not a good brand until it is backed up with the sword and blood.

This nation is fortunate in having both a president and secretary of state who are seriously inclined and are not carried off their feet by stormy rhetoric and visionary notions, altruistic but impractical. Germany has enough American gold received by her from the sale of marks to Easy Marks here to have paid the first year of the bonus. Rumania is spending enough on a cora-tion to pay her debt to us. Mr. Hoover sees and knows of all these things; of Russia and her army
needing all the Ukrainian grain while peasants starve
of Greece for the ambition of a puppet king spending her last resource and all her credit to fight a war of defeat—and knowing this, is able to say that Europe should go to work and produce and sell, quit her alms seeking from America and pay her debts. For this the international banker group is severely criticizing Mr. Hoover.
As a matter of record it is very likely the secretary of commerce will survive the criticism and be supported by the American people who are not apologists for America.

IN THE NINTH DISTRICT

The contest for congress in the Ninth district
in the northeastern part of the state is interesting. There was a time when this district was close and a democrat has represented it. Judge Henry Graess is the independent candidate against George W. Schneider, La Follette follower and radical leader. Schneider did not have the endorsement of the La Follette forces in the primary. That went to Elmer Hall, who ran third.
In spite of this Graess was only defeated by 179 votes. Judge Graess is one of the leaders of Wisconsin. He would honor the state in service.
For a time there was a democratic candidate in Mayor C. J. Hanzel of Antigo but he has withdrawn and the weight of his vote will, it is said,
be thrown to Judge Graess.

The line is sharply drawn. Hall under normal circumstances should have won with the La Follette endorsement but opposed as he was by a radical, Hall was not considered radical enough. Where Hall's vote will go is the determining factor. If Judge Graess polled the full strength he could command in the primary he is defeated but if the Hall vote is unwilling to accept the Schneider far-reaching radicalism, it will elect Graess.

INSECTS AND THEIR SENSES

By FREDERICK A. HASKIN

Washington.—Did you ever imagine what the world resembles to an insect? Putting yourself in an insect's place is not just a matter of picturing your normal self reduced a million or so times and walking about seeing crumbs as mountains. You must build up a new world, one that is more fantastic than H. G. Wells' idea of Mars.
And even then a human being can have only a dim conception of what life would be if he had his legs and depended on his sense of smell more than his eyes to tell him what the world is like.

If you fancy yourself a worker in the bee world,
for example, you must imagine yourself recognizing his neighbors by their distinctive odor.
Family resemblance in the social order of bees is a matter of a live and family odor, rather than of peculiar appearance.

When you returned home after a long journey
in search of nectar the sentinel at the door would know you by the odor of the hive which you carried. If by some mishap you became lost or injured and did not return to the hive for several days the live odor would gradually become faint
and when you arrived the guardian of the door
would sound the warning that a stranger was trying to break in. The result would be a tragic ending of your useful career.

As a honey bee you would have an intense passion for sweet things, and if a scientist got you in his power and put you to work in his experiments
you would show him that a bee cannot be fooled
by bitter salts in candy. You would be a con-noisseur to the extent of recognizing the difference between candy containing ethylalcohol and candy containing quinine when the scientist himself could not detect any difference in taste.

These random glimpses of life in an insect's
world are gathered from the experiments of Dr.
N. E. McIndoo of the Bureau of Entomology. Dr.
McIndoo recently has published a paper on the senses of insects in which he explains his latest observations and conclusions, especially those relating to the olfactory sense.

"In regard to odors," he says, "insects have already evolved a new science and are capable of classifying and analyzing odors, many of which are unknown to us. Furthermore, they have evolved special organs for producing odors and highly developed organs for receiving them. In fact, the olfactory sense of insects, particularly in the honeybee is so highly developed that we do not have any more conception of what the bee
honeybee (if it could think as we do) of our world developed sense of sight, which is able to distinguish accurately the size, form, and color of objects."

Science for centuries has puzzled over mysteries
of animal life and wondered how some of the tiny creatures are unerringly guided to their mates, to food, and to their homes. It was proved long ago that sight plays a minor part in insect life. Some scientists attribute the remarkable feats of insects to instinct and others believe that strange occult powers guide them. Still other entomolo-gists are persuaded that one of the most important, highly developed, rule insect activities as sight plays human life.

Dr. McIndoo believes that a keen olfactory sense accounts for much of the extraordinary behavior of insects. Some moths, for instance, attract males from miles away.

Dr. McIndoo carried 450 Promethes cocoons
from Massachusetts to small islands in the Florida Keys. The moths were then sufficiently far from their regional home, the doctor figured, so that no
other specimens would interfere with his observations. The female moths were kept in glass jars, some turned up down on the sand, and some were kept hanging over the top.

The males were released at various distances.
They quickly found their way to the females in the jars covered with netting, but none came to the jars with mouths buried in the sand.
As the females in all the jars were equally visible, Dr. McIndoo found it reasonable to believe that sight had little or nothing to do with the attraction of the male moth to the female. He believes that emanations passed away from the jars
whose mouths were covered with netting, and that these emanations were sensed in some way by the male moths. As delicate odors could not escape
through the jars with mouths buried in the sand,
the signals from these jars were disregarded.
To support his theory that the olfactory sense dominate insect life, Dr. McIndoo brings the evidence of other scientists. Wheeler, he says,
found that different species of ants have different
odors that can be distinguished even by the feeble nose of a human being. The odor of one species is described as being pungent and ethereal; two others are smoky; others are like rotten cocoons;
and still another species of ant has a small
remnant of lemon geranium.

Another scientist, Miss Veldt, thinks that the mother ant transmits a family odor to all of her offspring, and she says that ants can differentiate
the innate odors peculiar to the species, sex, caste,
and individual, and also the acquired odor of the nest and environment.

Each ant, she claims, has three odors: (1) a secret deposited by her feet, forming an individual trail, whereby she traces her own steps; (2) an
"inherent" and inherited odor, manifested over her whole body, identical in quality for queens
and workers of the same lineage, and a means for the recognition of blood relations; and (3) a nest odor, consisting of the combined odors of all the members of the colony and used to distinguish their nest from those of aliens.

Besides all this, Miss Veldt puts forth the theory that ants can even detect progressive odors
due to change of psychological condition with
the age of the individual ant.

A human being can dimly understand this specialized use of the sense of smell. With his dulled olfactory organs he can, it has been pointed out,
make the crude distinction between a horse and a cow, or a cat and a dog. By finer work, a scientist discovers that drones, workers and queens in a hive all have peculiar odors that a human nose
can learn to distinguish, and that lighter odors
about which man can only speculate, must guide
the actions of insects at astounding distances.

In fact, Dr. McIndoo believes that the world of such insects as the ant and bee is not only a world of odors but that the olfactory sense is so important to them that they cannot exist if it is destroyed. Yet man thinks his sense of smell is acute when he can distinguish blindfolded between an onion and a violet.

Also the Hall leaders are bitter against Schneider
because the latter refused to clear the way for the La Follette candidate and there is far from harmony in the radical ranks.

In the election it is safe to pick out the boot-
leg candidates and let them stay at home.

A woeful forgetfulness seems to be characteristic of some of the political historians. Here is Son-in-law McAdoo saying that the Payne-Adrich
bill was the greatest contributing factor in defeating Taft in 1912. If we remember history it seems that Taft was defeated by an overwhelming desire of Theodore Roosevelt to get back to the White House. The tariff was only a collateral issue.

Have you done your Christmas shopping yet? A little early but so is the thought that in two months taxes will be due.

Some 40 odd women are being tried for one degree or another of homicide which gives us
hope that woman will eventually take her place
in the sun.

TO THE LITTLE BABY

You know your mother—that's plain as day,
But those wide blue eyes of you seem to say
When I read over your crib: "Now who
Are you?"
It's little figure I cut, I know,
And face from baby but I know
But I'm the gladdest of all the glad—
Your dad!

You're two months old, and you see us smile,
And I know you are wondering all the while Whoever on earth can these people be
You see.
You've learned your mother; you know her well
When hunger calls the dinner bell.
But somehow or other you cannot place
My face.

As yet I'm but one of the passing throng,
The curious people who come along
And pause at your crib, and you seem to say,
Each day:
"I know one voice that is sweet to hear,
I know her step when my mother's near,
I know her wonderful smile—but who
Are you?"

"You always come with the same old grin,
Your finger's rough when you tuck me in.
But you run away when I start to cry,
And I
Don't understand when visitors call
Why you're so afraid they will let me fall;
You're the dearest of all the queer Folks here!"

It's true that over your crib I stand
And tinkle your chin with my rough old hand,
But I run away when you start to cry,
But I
Have a right to my queer little funny ways,
To boast your worth and to sound your praise,
For I am the gladdest of all the glad—
Your dad!

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

HOW TO BEHAVE IN THE THEATRE

It is always well to have all arguments with the wife while sitting in the theatre. She is far away from her household weapons and you are reasonably safe. And your family quarrel is always sure to be of absorbing interest to people
around you who are trying to enjoy the show.
The man should always precede the lady down
the aisle when going to the seats, as this is always the only occasion nowadays when any man
can get ahead of his wife.

If you have seen the play before it is always
well to announce this fact loudly as many times
as possible and to predict in advance just what is going to happen, which enables many others
in the audience of the necessity of keeping their minds on the stage.

If you have seats on the aisle it is always the best form to go early so others will have to climb
over you, and if you have seats in the interior it is always best to go late so you will have to climb over eight or ten other people.

You should always remember that neighborhood gossip is always intensely interesting to the strangers who sit in front of you and that they have bought their tickets for the express purpose of listening to it all the evening.

"Yes, Bill," chided him two days with a showman
finally got a good head on him and shot him
through the lungs," said the New Jersey man.

"Kill him?"
"Didn't they lynch Bill for cold-blooded murder?"
"Nope," the fellow Bill said; didn't have a friend
on earth, so the game warden shot him Bill two dollars for hunting without a license."

If you do not exactly remember why October
is such a delightful month stop and think that it is the month when you do not have to send in an installment of your income tax.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

FATAMUS WHO DON'T EAT MUCH
Only 12.5 per centum of the fat folks who write to me about it are big eaters—in their own estimation.
At least 0.04 per centum of these are right.

One of the uses of calories if people persist in gulping 'em down without counting the cost, just as they do liver pills?
An adult of average size just sitting around requires 2,500 calories of nourishment daily to maintain his normal routine and weight. As a general rule, however, he is more generous to himself and consumes
perhaps an additional 1,000 calories
each day. In fact there are a few big eaters and the painful, scientific truth is that the extra thousand calories, taken in the form of 16, or
a couple of helpings of mince pie,
or half a pound of walnut cake, or peanut brittle or two chocolate nut
sundae, will supply the superfluous thousand calories. It may be easy for a light nibbler to gnaw gnaw his way into the unloved class.

Of course one may eat his cake and burn it too. An adult of average size
may get away with 3,600 calories daily
if he will get off his seat now and then and stir about some—say two miles three times a day. In fact there is just about 100 calories difference
in the daily combustion of metabolism of the amateur or professional
long distance stroller and the careful rocking chairer who has the few calories of oxygen on the hoof. Countless business men and women in business have shortened their lives, allocated the afflictions of their encloved
ones, and worn out powerful built bodies sitting around wishing somebody would invent a machine to inject the saving oxygen into the metabolism. But somebody won't.

The above said almost enough about protein loss. We have reached the end of the yarn about uric acid and we're trying to trace the way back
within hailing distance of the physician. The above have quite enough of the frightened lady laying off from whatever they imagine lithogenous or likely to yield uric acid. For my parts, I'm weary of preaching about
it. I've said enough about uric acid and the evils of meat eating. I'm serving now that hereafter if not in the hereafter I shall specialize on carbonyl-dates. Before I get through with what I'm going to say about the harm

I am a young man in my sixty-fifth year. I don't tell me which is better to drink, tea or coffee. I drink two cups of coffee three times a day. Some people declare tea is better for health.
(Young Chicken.)
Answer—They are both good for the health that it is difficult to decide whether tea or coffee is better. But you are taking about twice too much for your size.

Salt Is Necessary.
Is salt a necessity to the human body? Can man live without salt?
What is the right amount for daily consumption? Is too much salt injurious to health? (S. B.)

Answer—An adult requires not more than half a teaspoonful of salt
daily and children less without salt.
Too much salt in or on food favors edema or dropsical swelling in certain cases. The average daily quantity taken by healthy adults is about half an ounce. When the diet is particularly planned to limit the intake of salt to half a teaspoonful daily there is usually a corresponding reduction in body weight due to retention of a smaller proportion of water in the body tissues.

Grape Seeds.
Please tell me whether eating grape
seeds causes appendicitis. (Mrs. C. K.) Answer—No. It rather tends to prevent appendicitis. Seed like masses sometimes found in the appendix at operation, and in rare cases even lead to appendicitis as a result of disinfection, not as a cause. The lymph of the normal or healthy appendix is closed and nothing can enter it.

Q. At what time can the cadets
at the United States Military Academy
be seen drilling? E. E.

A. Several companies of the cadets
at West Point drill each day about 4 o'clock. The entire corps does not drill at one time for drill. Every week, from June to September, the whole corps has parade every afternoon.

Q. Were the words "discovery of the north pole" in the pension bill of Robert E. Peary? F. L.

A. The bill granting Admiral Peary and tendering the thanks of congress
does not contain the words "discovery"
or "discovery," but declares that Peary "reached the north pole."

Q. When did the government coin half-cent pieces? W. H. H.

A. The coinage of half-cent pieces commenced in 1773. None was coined in 1793, 1795, 1801, 1812 to 1824 inclusive, 1827, 1830, 1837 to 1839 inclusive. The coinage was discontinued in 1857. The total volume in half-cent pieces amounted to $339,956.11.

Q. What is the record for deep sea
diving? M. M.

A. The record is given by some authorities at 234 feet, a depth
reached by James "Carp" at Pichdanda, South America. Benjamin Franklin Levitt of Brooklyn, however, the inventor of a new kind of diving suit, is reported to have divined, having reached a depth of 361
feet in Grand Traverse bay, Michigan, in 1924.

Q. Does England draw revenue from the Canadian navy? C. E.

A. Canada does not pay any direct taxes to Great Britain. The chief benefit of Canada for the mother country is in the matter of preferential trade.

Q. What will make plaster Paris adhere to wooden picture frames?
D. V.

A. Add whitening to glue until it is quite thick. Cover the wood with the paste, then attach the plaster. The paste will keep the plaster from falling off. Many plaster workers have been killed in enforcing the law W. A. E.

Q. A recent statement of the federal prohibition commissioner says
that 125 federal officers have lost their licenses. How many?

A. The longest tunnel in the world is the Simplon tunnel between Italy
and Switzerland. The longest tunnel
in North America is the Rogers Pass tunnel, and the longest in the United States is the Union tunnel in southwest Colorado.

Q. Was the rob of Aaron the High Priest white? S. E.

A. The directions of Moses with regard to the robe of Aaron were "and thou shalt make the robe of the ephod all of blue . . . and upon the skirts of it thou shalt make pomegranates of blue and of purple and
of scarlet . . . and bells of gold
between them round about."

Do You Know
How to Act in a Fire?
What would you do
If someone's clothing caught
on fire?
If you were trapped in a
smoke-filled room?
If you had to leave for someone overcome by smoke?
Also, do you know how to attack
a small fire with a fire extinguisher?
Lives and wealth may depend upon what you do in the first five minutes after a fire starts.

All of these things are explained
in the Fire Booklet prepared by the National Bureau of Fire Underwriting
for the United States Bureau of Education.

It explains in great detail
how to reduce to a minimum the danger of fire which threatens every home in this country every minute.

The Black Menace

A CRAIG KENNEDY STORY

By ARTHUR B. REEVES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Craig Kennedy, finding on the death of a respectable uncle that he is penniless and with a fortune of a million dollars has been dissipated, discovers that she has been a victim of the Black Menace, a notorious society blackmailer. She appeals to Raveland, a society detective, and later to Craig Kennedy, the great chamberlain, to help her. Craig is engaged to be married to Jack Speed, a newspaper reporter, whose father is wealthy, but has determined the son shall earn a living. Kennedy also has a warning from Ripley Granby, wealthy, who has not covered either of the Driving lustily to the Granby home. Kennedy finds that the rich man is dead and investigates the cause. Raveland and Kennedy agree on a plan of action.

An effort to kidnap Craig Kennedy is made, but owing to the rapid work of Jack Speed, it is frustrated. Kennedy, one of the kidnapers, escapes and is followed. In the meantime Kennedy finds evidence that Granby has died from a mysterious green poison. One more was found in the neighborhood of the mansion of mystery.

"I think," decided Kennedy, that here's a good place for Kennedy to be. He pulled up in the shadow of a bend in the road on a rising spot of ground.

Here we waited with lights dimmed. Our senses alert to catch every unexpected sound. Each of us concentrated his attention in a different direction.

It was a quiet night, which seemed to add to our suppressed excitement. The sound of the wind in the trees added to the tenseness of the country darkness.

Once the quietness was broken by the purring of the motor on the road behind us.

A car shot past containing only a single figure, a woman.

"Clare!" exclaimed Speed involuntarily. "She can't be kept away. We might better have brought her with us."

Kennedy jammed on the starter. It would never do to let this girl be alone in this neighborhood at night. It was foolhardy.

We gathered speed. The moon was just rising, and there was sufficient light to see the car as it wound along the road, now and then coming into the moonlight.

Clare's car turned off the road to another between two fields. It dipped down over the brow of a hill ahead and we followed.

As we nosed our way up to the crest we could see that she had stopped, and was looking about as though not quite sure where she was. "Look!" exclaimed Speed, leaning forward.

We strained our eyes in the darkness, where the moonlight had not yet struck.

In the field to the right, was the figure we had seen the night before. A hundred half-formed ideas whirled through my head.

Had there been some new plot? Could Clare have been cleverly enticed here in our absence for the purpose of being lured into danger while those who must have helped her were supposed to be safely side-tracked?

Speed shouted, as Kennedy stopped on the grass and sent the car hurtling along for every ounce of power in it. As he shouted I leaned over and looked again. The weird figure was advancing menacingly full at Clare.

There was a crash. Kennedy had driven the car right through a rail fence and into the plowed field the shortest cut, as the road wound and ended in a ditch.

In the still night I heard the crack of a pistol. There was a spit of fire in the darkness. Clare had fired at the incoming figure.

But her bullet had no more effect than it had on the night before. Still the thing advanced on her, evidently oblivious of our approach. Another moment and it would be upon her.

Speed shouted. But it was of no use. In spite of everything, it was evident that we could not get to Clare in time. Nor was it any use to shoot against the thing in its bullet-proof clothing.

There came over me a sense of utter helplessness. Just then I felt Kennedy rise in the crazily swaying car as it bumped from furrow to furrow. This time it was from the peculiar gun which Craig carried.

The figure stumbled but did not fall as though wounded. Instead it seemed to be groping wildly about

In the field, no longer trying to find the girl, but rather to get away. Somehow Kennedy had been able to succeed where Clare and the rest of us had failed.

The car careened and came to a stop in the deep soil. The rear wheels spun, digging deeper and deeper, but we no longer moved forward. Craig jumped out and we followed.

"What did you do?" I asked thickly as Speed and I caught up with him running.

"Bullets are no good against that bullet-proof cloth," he panted as we ran. "I used a new tear bullet—benzyl bromide—chloroacetone vapor—produces temporary blindness."

As he spoke we were getting closer in the heavy going through the field to the widely groping figure. Squared at it again, Craig discharged another tear bullet.

This time the thing fell, and as it fell, I saw that it was indeed clad in a reinforced cloth of peculiar cut—perhaps steel lined, with leg and arm guards.

Above was a sort of triangular headpiece or helmet with slits for the eyes—a thing that was medieval except that it had been designed to resist sharp-pointed bullets and even the high velocity modern bullet.

"I couldn't let you come out here alone," cried Clare as Speed ran up to her.

Kennedy bent over and unfastened the head of the prosthetic figure before us, as it groveled, almost stupefied.

We stared trying to recognize him, as Kennedy flashed a bull's eye on him.

It was Werner, the lounge lizard. CHAPTER 9. THE CHORUS MAN.

Werner was almost speechless from the surprising and blinding tear gas as we bent over him. He could not see us, and to our questions he could only mumble answers.

"What were you doing here?" demanded Kennedy, pulling him to his feet.

Werner mumbled an answer, but there seemed to be no coherence to it. However, as he came out from the effect of the drugs he was able to stand alone, looking about at us and realizing that at last Kennedy had trapped him.

Clare was finishing telling why she had taken a notion to go out about the country on her own resources, leaving that Jack might run into some peril and wishing to be nearby if he did.

Again Kennedy began his quizzing of Werner. But it was without result. There was nothing in him but defiant silence.

"What shall we do with him?" asked Speed. "We don't want to take him back to the city."

Kennedy shook his head negatively. "No, and besides, I doubt whether we have the authority. I think we'll just about drive over to the country seat at Arcola and have him put under guard."

We made ready to get back into our cars, Speed joining Clare, while I took charge of Werner in the back of our own.

I understood perfectly what Kennedy's scheme was. By tomorrow the sullen lounge lizard might think better of it, perhaps realize that the simplest way out for himself was to turn state's evidence. Even if that did not happen, at least then Kennedy might have a chance to administer one of his well-known scientific third degrees. There must be some way to get the truth out of this fellow.

Dinner Stories

Lewis L. Clarke, president of the American Exchange National Bank of New York, tells Judge this capital story of the lack of emotion of the average banker when approached for a financial favor.

A gentleman desiring to borrow some money called upon the president of a prominent bank and told his story in an appealing manner.

After listening, the banker said: "My friend, I'll make you a sporting proposition—a sort of 'fifty-fifty' proposition. It is not generally known that I have a glass eye."

The visitor looked at the banker closely and said: "I never suspected that."

"Why do you?" replied the banker, looking at the man with a straight face. "Now if you will tell me which of my eyes is glass, I will make you a loan without a moment's hesitation."

"It is your left eye," was the quick response.

"You are right," said the banker. "But how could you tell?"

"Well," replied the applicant for a loan, "during the time I was telling my story that your left eye was the more sympathetic."

Judge.

This conversation was heard in a small North Carolina village:

"Whaddya? think of Mistah Smith, de bankah, Moser?"

"Ain't Smith de bankah? He's a fien gentlem'n, Moser, and a good man. Too borrowed five bucks on him mo'n a year ago, an' he aint nevah ask for it. All I does is to gib him a quater dollah every Sadder what he calls in—an' he lets me not to bother about de principal, w'ich am de five."

Leads the World IN PRICE IN QUALITY IN SERVICE

According to a statement just issued by Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, a general reduction of $50.00 a car has been made in the prices of Ford Model T Cars and the Ford 1 Ton Truck, effective October 17th.

"The revision in prices," said Mr. Ford, "is the result of the increased volume of business which our company has enjoyed during the present year, and also, to the fact that we now own and operate many of our own sources of raw material, which enables us to continue increasing the quality of our product and at the same time keep the price so low that Ford cars are in reach of everybody."

"Our Production for 1922 is already in excess of a million, which has been an important factor in bringing down costs. Our present daily output is averaging better than 5,000 cars and Trucks, which means a complete Ford Car or Truck every 5 1/2 seconds of each eight-hour working day. It is in anticipation of this continued demand that price adjustments are again being made in order to keep in effect the policy of selling Ford products at the lowest price consistent with quality."

"Quality, as usual," said Mr. Ford, will continue to be a prime consideration in the building of Ford Cars. As our business has increased we have constantly increased our equipment and manufacturing facilities, so that this price reduction merely reflects the progressive methods which come as a result of increased volume."

"This reduction, which is the sixth since March, 1920, brings the price of the Ford Touring Car from $575, the price in effect early in 1920, to the present extremely low level of $293, which is nearly 50% less. Corresponding reductions have been made on all other types."

The new prices by types follow:-

Touring $298	Chassis $235	Sedan $595
Roadster $265	Coupe $530	Truck $380

A monument to John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," has just been erected at Spring Place, Ga. That location was selected because it was there that Payne was arrested and held in prison for a time because of his sympathy for the Cherokee Indians at the time that 14,000 of them were driven from their homes in Georgia. The "Old Guard," an historic body composed of Atlanta business men, were interested in the movement to honor Payne's memory.

Temp Jeffries, elongated end, and Warren Rommes, midget quarter, talking things over.

Indiana university has the ideal man, in one respect at least, for end in these days of the aerial game on the gridiron. He's Temp Jeffries. He stands 6 feet 3 inches tall sans cleated shoes and can nonchalantly reach out and grab any forward pass heaved in his direction before the opposing players have a chance to perturb him. He is shown above having a long distance chat with Warren Rommes, 5 feet 6 inches, who as quarterback must elevate his passes two or three feet when heaving them forty or fifty yards to Jeffries.

MAKING GOLF BALLS TALK

Joe Kirkwood, the Australian "trick golfer," is a wizard with the golf stick as Peter is with the billiard cue. Kirkwood, who is at present on a tour of this country, is in a class by himself when it comes to making "trick" shots.

The diagram shows three of Kirkwood's amazing shots, as he has been exhibiting them to the astonished spectators at the various golf clubs in this country.

No. 1—With three balls teed together he drives the center ball with a brassie without touching the others.

No. 2—This is a triple stymie. With four balls placed in line in front of the cup he hops one ball after the other over the others and into the cup with a mashie.

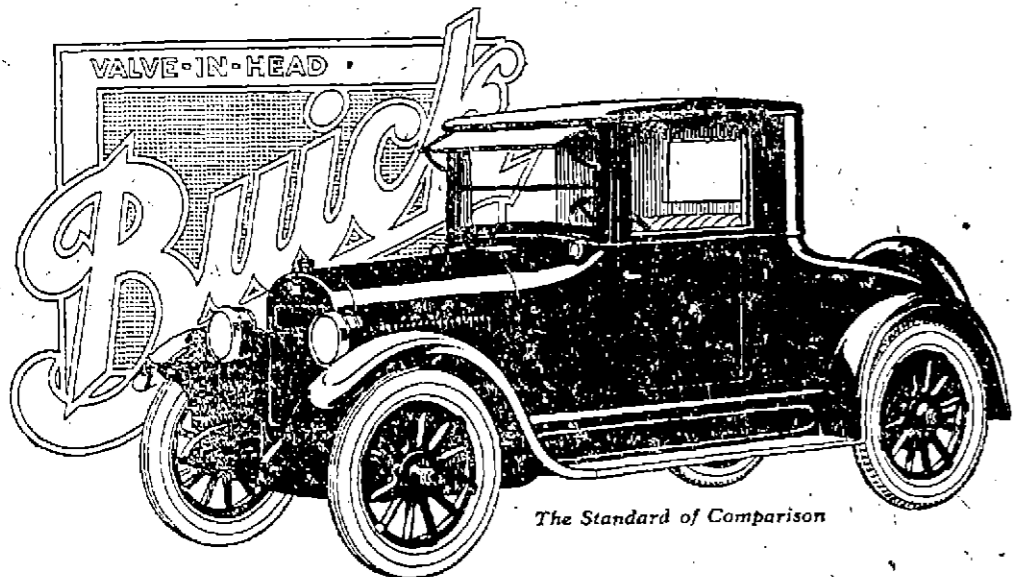

No. 3—Drives a golf ball off the face of a watch without injuring the crystal.

Closed Car Comfort for Business and Pleasure
The 1923 Buick Four Coupe—$1175

Combining the beauty and appointments of the costliest closed cars with modest proportions and every day utility, the Buick four-cylinder, three passenger coupe meets the requirements of business and professional use, as well as those of the family.

Its smartness has been increased by the changes that have been made in body, radiator and cowl to lower and lengthen its appearance and at the same time add roominess inside the body. Heavy crown fenders, drum type head and cowl lamps are touches that enhance its outside attractiveness.

Wide doors swing open to reveal an interior trimmed and upholstered in fine plush and set off by distinctive fittings. A heater, cowl ventilator and disappearing door windows provide perfect all-weather driving comfort.

Improvements have been made too in the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine, springs, frame and every important unit of the chassis to develop further the dependability and ruggedness that always is so marked in Buick cars.

Perfect Brake Action

A new method of fastening the rear semi-elliptic springs on all 1923 four-cylinder models insures perfect braking whether the car is carrying its full quota of passengers or just the driver. A lubricated bearing permits the springs to lengthen under load without changing the axle's position.

The Buick Line for 1923 comprises fourteen models:
Four—2 Pass. Roadster, $1175; 3 Pass. Touring, $1195; 5 Pass. Sedan, $1295; 5 Pass. Touring Sedan, $1325; Six—2 Pass. Roadster, $1175; 3 Pass. Touring, $1195; 5 Pass. Sedan, $1295; 5 Pass. Touring Sedan, $1325; 7 Pass. Touring, $1435; 7 Pass. Sedan, $1495; Sport Roadster, $1615; Sport Touring, $1675. Prices f.o.b. Buick factories. Ask about the G. M. A. C. Purchase Plan, which provides for deferred payments.

When The Generator Doesn't "Pick Up"

Don't Let The Commutator Get Oily From Excessive Dribbling Lubrication

IF EVER THE AMMETER fails to indicate charging current, when the car is running at ordinary speed, and still "discharge" is indicated when the lights are switched on, it is probable that the generator is "dead" but the trouble may be that the cut-out fails to connect it into circuit. If this latter condition exists, you will obtain a spark when you hold one end of a piece of wire on the running engine and flick the other end against the metal of the generator terminal. If a spark occurs, the generator is active and the cut-out trouble should be corrected at once or else the generator prevented from exciting. In order to prevent its field-coils from overheating. If no spark appears, the generator is dead. If it is one which includes a fuse in its field circuit, most likely this has burned out, but it is inadvisable to replace it until the cause of its melting has been ascertained and removed, as it will "go out" again. It may be that the brush contact is so poor, that the field magnetizing current will not build up, in which case, cleaning the commutator and of oil, with a kerosened rag, lightly sandpapering the commutator and the end faces of the brushes and making sure that the brushes have enough pressure on the commutator, may end the trouble. A perfect contact of the third brush is especially important. Possibly the cable from the third brush to the field-coil or the connections between field-coils may be loose. If, with the generator in rotation, but still dead, the contact points of the cut-out are momentarily pressed together, with the fingers, current will flow from the battery and excite the field and the generator should begin to generate. If it does not do so, the chances are that the field winding is open or that the armature winding is short-circuited and that replacements are required.

DISTRIBUTOR POINTS FUSE TOGETHER

J. L. G. writes: The distributor points of my car "fused" together after driving five or ten miles and the engine died, but as soon as the position of the points was changed, the engine will run a few miles, only to give the same trouble again. I have put in new points, but the trouble continues. What do you think causes it?

Answer: The most natural assumption is that your condenser is not functioning properly and you better have a new one put in or at least have your present one tested to make sure that there is nothing wrong with it. It is only the presence in circuit of the condenser that suppresses the sparking, which would otherwise take place and fuse the contacts very quickly. Another occasional cause of points sticking is the presence of oil in the distributor head. If the current that flows in the primary ignition circuit becomes abnormally large, for instance through the short-circuiting of the resistance unit, there is also a tendency for the points to burn together and if the points are not adjusted to give a full, flat contact, the likelihood of their sticking is increased. We assume that your points are of standard material.

IGNITION SWITCH GETS HOT

W. D. S. writes: When my car is driven faster than 6 or 8 miles an hour, the combination switch gets very hot. The starter and ignition work perfectly, but the battery runs down in a very short time. Can you suggest what causes this heating?

Answer: As there are no resistance-coils in your switch, the only reasonable presumption is that the heat you notice is the result of the passage of a considerable volume of current through a dirty or weak contact of considerable resistance. You may find that your switch is lightly grounded to the metal instrument board of the car and that when the generator becomes fully excited, current flows through this ground path, with the production of considerable heat, and very little charging current reaches the battery. If any of the contacts make a very high resistance connection, there would be considerable heating at such a point. We suggest that either you have this switch fully tested out for grounds and weak contacts and the defects remedied or that you install a new one.

Performance and Beauty That Endure

The beauty of Cadillac enclosed cars is the beauty that endures—simple, strong lines expressing that discernment of the really worth while which is termed good taste.

But the satisfaction in the pride of ownership of a Cadillac goes deeper. It arises from steadfast dependability, from the assurance that its fine performance will continue in unvarying degree, day after day, and mile after mile.

Easy of operation, softness and facility of control, delightful riding comfort, swiftness of acceleration, luxury of fittings and appointments—all these elements are but supplementary to that deep-founded reliability which is so characteristic of Cadillac.

ROCK SHORTHORNS SELL FOR $5,750

Will Have Bred Testing Association Started by November 1.

The milking Shorthorn sale by the Rock county Shorthorn association in the livestock pavilion Thursday is expected to be one of the best dual purpose cattle sales held this fall in the corn belt states. Forty-three head, 36 females and seven bulls, including 12 young heifers, sold for $5,750, an average of $132.72. The county sale a year ago averaged $112.

The high cow was imported Oseola Telluria, owned by the Walter Little estate, selling for $325. Kinella Duke, age 14 months, first in the best cow class at Milwaukee, sired by Kinella Duke 4th, also a fair winner, went for $225—the high mark for bulls. The bulls offered sold well.

Rock county Shorthorn breeders will have their testing association started by Nov. 1, according to President Harvey Little. Sixteen breeders have been signed up and 10 additional members are sought for the association limited to Shorthorn owners. High records, it is declared, can be obtained in the Rock county herds, for more than one-half of the Record of Merit Shorthorns in Wisconsin at the present time are owned in Rock county.

There were more than 300 people attending the Rock county sale. It was the first livestock auction held in the new pavilion. The Holstein association will offer 70 head at the next sale to be held in the pavilion Oct. 31. The report of the Shorthorn sale follows:

CHASES STATE RECORD

Rock county may have a state and world record production cow in the grade Holstein, "Kittie," owned by Rockwell & Katter, Henry, Deloit.

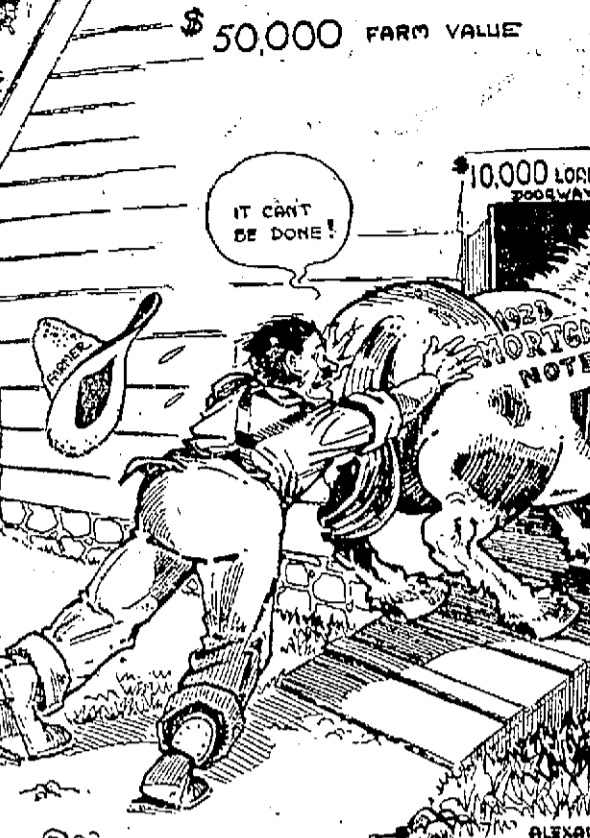

The sow has three more months to run and is holding up her milk production in a manner that indicates she will either defeat or come near the present production mark. For many months she was the leading cow in the Deloit testing association.

Her milk production for March was 2,318 pounds and for April 2,399, and for eight and a half months ending Sept. 29 her total production was 17,283 pounds of milk and 607.2 pounds of butterfat.

There are several other crack producers in the Rockwell & Katter Holstein herd of 50 animals.

MAKE THE DOOR LARGER

$50,000 FARM VALUE

VERY Rock county banker appreciates the present financial condition of farmers and every farmer realizes that one of the most important remedies to the agricultural situation is better credit. In no other county have bankers stood behind the farmer as in Rock, and a good part of the farmers are being carried beyond the usual time.

Due to the present banking system is not favorable to farmers. The farmer needs long time credit. He cannot plant, harvest and sell crops or live stock on 90 or 120 day notes. When he does he is cramped and is forced to sell soon after the harvest. The great evil of the present American farm marketing system is that too big a percentage of crops are "cramped" on the market all about the same time. The demand is the year around and yet the farmer attempts to supply the year's demand in one or two months. Hurried sales

ing to pay short time notes means smaller returns to the producer and less purchasing power for the farmer. The need of financial legislation to aid farmers is pressing and the American Farm Bureau has been instrumental in forcing the issue both in Congress and in state legislatures. Reforms are promised.

Many Rock county farmers obtain loans under the farm loan plan. A county loan association has been formed and is obtaining excellent results. It is now proposed by the Farm Bureau representatives in Washington to increase the maximum amount that can be loaned under this system from $10,000 to $50,000.

Two bills have been passed, reports the Farm Bureau, one permitting the rate of interest to be changed slightly and the other increasing the capital of the federal farm loan system to $25,000,000. It is forecasted that the maximum that can be loaned, with good security under the long period plan, will be increased in the near future.

Another bill is being backed by the bureau which will enable the farmer to obtain loans on crops and live stock, these loans running from six months to six years.

The approach of winter finds agriculture in need of better financing and the bureau through its organized work hopes to secure credit reforms to enable the farmer to market the 1923 crop in a more orderly and profitable manner. Numerous bills are being offered and it is the bureau's job to exert its influence through the farm bill to have favorable laws to the farmer adopted. Credit and lower transportation rates are two farm improvements the bureau is now seeking for its members.

CRITICISE TYPES PICKED AT SHOWS

Troublesome Question of Types Acknowledged by Breeders.

By LEWIS C. FRENCH

Show ring or pork barrel type? The answer is bothering many leading swine breeders and many of the successful herd owners declare that show ring judges are going to extremes in picking blue ribbon winners. They say that the more common sense with a view of selecting real farmer type would greatly aid the swine business and encourage showing.

Swine types have went through radical changes in the last 15 years. There is no question but what the bacon type of hog is desired and brings premium prices. The packers want lean and smooth hogs and are willing to pay high prices to obtain this type.

Demand Changes
Gone are the days when fat swine topped the market. It is lean swine that go to the top of the market but also it is true that lean feeding swine does not pay the farmer. It is a battle of types. It cannot be denied that the bacon types, especially Hampshires are fast coming to the front. But it is equally true that corrected breeding is rapidly making semi-bacon type hogs out of the old large type breeds.

The collapse of the lard market brought about the change in type. Consequently judges changed views and now, arched backs, long and big legs along with smoothness stand out as the paramount judging points. There are many breeders who criticize present standards of judging the big shows.

"You cannot get away from the fact you must raise the types the farmers want for breeding stock," declared one pioneer blooded swine raiser. "You cannot sell the farmer the radical type—he wants pork and plenty of it. The farmer seeking a bear wants size and weight. His hogs must have good hams big legs and spread of back to make him a profit."

The test of the hog is the butcher block and too many judges do not seem to realize this fact in fat decisions. It is all right to have them "up in the air" with arched backs—but first of all swine to be profitable on the pork market must have weight and good feeding qualities."

are as much interested in the red roans and whites today as they were 40 and 60 years ago. Mr. Chamberlain started his interest in Shorthorns in 1889 on a farm near Beloit. He still can read pedigrees with the best of breeders.

Wool growers are advised by the Wisconsin department of markets to refrain from selling their wool at bargain prices and consign the clip to the pools immediately. The department has been advised by breeders who have virtually empty lots are now securing fleece wools in earlier lots at low prices. The market value of wool has increased and the demand strengthened as the result of the new tariff on imports of 31 cents per clean content.

Pioneer Shorthorn Breeders at Sale
Three of the oldest Shorthorn breeders in Wisconsin, all from Rock county, attended the county sale in Janesville.

They are Henry, Wenham, James Madden and John Chamberlain. They

MY GOODNESS! WHAT WAS THAT? SOMEBODY DOWNSTAIRS.

WELL! WELL! JUST AS I SUSPECTED! A BURGLAR--

HEY! WHAT ARE YOU DOING IN MY HOUSE?

YOUR HOUSE?

HOW DO YOU GET THAT WAY?

DON'T TRY TO KID ME. I KNOW THE TITLE TO THIS PROPERTY IS IN YOUR WIFE'S NAME.

JEFFERSON

Jefferson--Mrs. M. Springer entered at 8 o'clock dinner in her home Thursday night. Following the dinner, the remainder of the evening was spent in playing Five Hundred, which Mrs. Wilfred Puerner won first prize. Mrs. Springer, Mrs. George Wagner, consolation. The guests were Mrs. R. M. Schweiger, Milwaukee, and the following from Jefferson: Mesdames Henry Puerner, Red Field, O. C. Utzsch, G. L. Smith, Frank Stoppensch, Gust Stoppensch, Henry Fischer, Steve Fischer, A. F. Hauser, Wilfred Puerner, Ray Schweiger, A. Bergman and George Wagner and Miss Isabel Haubensch.

The Card club met with Mrs. Etta Gross Friday afternoon. Five Hundred was played, followed by a luncheon. The following were present: Mesdames Albert Kroening, Harry Clark, Arthur Dabreiner, Fred E. Turner and Ted Puerner and Mesdames Harriet Decker, Madelyn Seiber, Helen Seiber, Florence Ladin, Margaret Yost and Iva Gross.

Mrs. A. M. Woolter, Mrs. Leslie Green, Mrs. Fred Blase, Mrs. John Prust, Mr. and Mrs. John Prust, were among those who attended the fall festival at Watertown Thursday.

Mrs. Henry Lenger and Miss Lucille Lenger were Milwaukee visitors Thursday.

The local store of the Wauegan Tea company was closed this week. Creditors of the concern have been notified that the company has gone into liquidation.

The Jefferson high school football squad was privileged to see the Whitewater-Oshkosh football game held at Whitewater Friday afternoon.

SALVATION ARMY IN APPEAL FOR BEDS
Officers of the Salvation Army can use several of the beds which Janesville persons may have to donate to use in equipping a room for "down and outers." During the past week beds were furnished for two men, a man, wife and child, who did not have the means to pay for quarters elsewhere. The beds will be called for by the officers.

LANTERN STEALING CAUSES NEW ACTION
The Janesville Electric company is connecting up a new system of lighting. The system is designed to eliminate the necessity of placing out lanterns, so many of which have been either broken or stolen the past week. The temporary lanterns will be used until the new system is installed, about Nov. 15.

HE KNOWS A THING OR TWO.

MY GOODNESS! WHAT WAS THAT? SOMEBODY DOWNSTAIRS.

WELL! WELL! JUST AS I SUSPECTED! A BURGLAR--

HEY! WHAT ARE YOU DOING IN MY HOUSE?

YOUR HOUSE?

HOW DO YOU GET THAT WAY?

DON'T TRY TO KID ME. I KNOW THE TITLE TO THIS PROPERTY IS IN YOUR WIFE'S NAME.

GOOD HEALTH WEEK

OCTOBER 23 TO OCTOBER 29

Good Health Demands Cleanliness in Garments and House Furnishings

Clean OUTER Garments as well as INNER. Clean Rugs, Draperies and House Furnishings of all kinds. Have them MASTER CLEANED often—by a RELIABLE MASTER CLEANER. You'll prevent contagious disease germs and sickness by doing so.

Health Authorities Recommend It

The United States Government spent millions of dollars for this kind of cleanliness and disease preventative during war period. Why shouldn't you take every precaution with your garments and house furnishings at only small cost. Send them to us for a reliable and thorough MASTER CLEANING.

We Make Them Look Like New

PLUSH COATS CLEANED AND STEAMED—it raises the nap and gives them a freshened, new appearance. We also clean Suede and Sheepskin Coats, Moleskins, in fact, any Ladies' or Gents' Garment, including Rugs, Draperies and House Furnishings of all kinds.

PHONE 471 FOR BEST AND MOST RELIABLE DRY CLEANING SERVICE. We Call and Deliver Free, and Guarantee all garments to be free from odors.

(SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO MAIL ORDERS.)

FOR YOUR GOOD HEALTH

We Suggest

An electric room heater and an electric heating pad to drive away the chills.

An electric suction vacuum sweeper will gather the dust and dirt into a bag and not scatter it through the air like a broom does. It is so much easier, too.

An Electric Washer is a sanitary way to wash and saves many a back-ache, making a more cheerful and healthy wash day.

Conserve Your Health!

Our Wet Wash Service

will eliminate all the heavy lifting, and the muss and confusion of wash day.

The cost is really so little that you cannot afford to do your laundering at home.

Would you wash and wring 25 lbs. of clothes for $1.00? Not much! We do, however, and we will iron your flat pieces for a small extra charge.

Phone for our man to call!

Janesville Steam Laundry

"Any kind of Laundry Service you wish."

GOOD HEALTH

Necessitates WHOLESOME food and cleanly surroundings. You will observe when eating here that we take great pains in keeping things neat, clean, sanitary and fresh.

Keep health by eating where the food that tickles your palate is properly cooked.

BADGER CAFE

7 S. Main St. Phone 1200.

Mothers should not take the slightest risk where baby's health and safety are concerned. Yet they do every day if they are not absolutely certain of the quality and cleanliness of the Milk fed the little one.

If you would see your child grow sturdy and smiling, with sparkling eyes, rosy dimpled cheeks, firm flesh and a sound untroubled stomach—

Use Merrick's Milk.

It gives all the most nourishing food values to baby—and nothing but them. It is hygienically handled from the moment it is produced until delivered to you. It is scientifically pasteurized, examined and re-examined. We take no chances with your child's health.

Why should you?

A telephone call will start daily delivery to your home.
